Monday, March 5, 2001 - 10:00 AM

The Earth is nearing a worrying saturation point. See how, around you, the whole creation is suffering. Men are the culprits. They have been playing with fire for too long. The process is irreversible, they cannot stop any more this mad machine that they started and which is rebounding on them. They mistook progress for the notorious incompetence, which characterizes them. While so proceeding, they were not really unaware of the consequences of their actions, but their pride was and remains the strongest.

"Now that this critical point has been reached, how will they get out of it? Poor innocents will pay for that. The collective consciousness also belongs to each one. This tragedy has no way out and you can notice its damaging effects more and more.

"We do not want to be alarmist, but simply wish to open your eyes while it is still time. Your means of action are very much limited; you do not hold the reins of power. You can mainly pray so that divine clemency would pity those sorcerer's apprentices who endangered the entire planet.

"May the time for a changed humanity come; it is our wish and the goal of our action."

Babuji