We have already come a long way together, my daughter. Take the time to look back and to see the crop we will leave behind, with these thousands of messages accumulated to help our brothers. Their tone is informal and they are innovative in some respects, in terms of the arguments we bring forward therein. We had to; times are changing and ideas are progressing.

"Here, in these writings, the heart is targeted above all; isn't it given all our care and attention? Simplicity is essential in a spiritual way. Useless aspects are excluded, as they are hindrances in a well-targeted quest, slowing down the work to be done. All these messages will enrich our way. They will be studied, commented on and appreciated by most of our brothers following in our wake.

"You can be happy with yourself, for you meet our requirements. Your perseverance in serving us in spite of your difficulties is exemplary; you have done a good job. Your heart has thus grown richer in many respects. Your view of beings and things has changed and is even more focused on the main things.

"Only the goal matters. Advancing every day while trying to do one's best is a wise attitude. In fact everything is simple; humans generally make their own life unnecessarily complicated. They cannot change its broad outlines and must accept what they cannot avoid. This incarnation is a stop necessary for their evolution; those who know it have already taken a great step forward. If they are following us, they have realized where the real meaning of their life lay and they are working towards their own evolution. The undertakings of each one of them are blessed."
