What you are doing for us is very special and conditions your way of life, including the isolation characterizing it. Thus was your destiny, my daughter; you are living the most important years, the culmination of your life. My son is motivated to act and ensure that one day these messages be perused by the greatest number of our brothers.

"We will still continue for a while, in order to complete this inspired work. Inexorably, time is doing its work and ploughing the furrow of the future when the role of the Mission will be strengthened in the world where great figures will represent the Master in many countries. The communication between all of them will be of primary importance; individual initiatives on issues of great weight are undesirable. Its strength will lie in the cohesion between the various elements. The spiritual entity of our way is, and will remain, that of the Master, chosen by the hierarchy, and no one can substitute for him.

"The pursuit of power is harmful, more especially in a spiritual movement like ours, both for the group and the person concerned. Our way is following its path, and it is all mapped out for a very long time. It takes a very long time in this world for the best to eventually manage to prevail. The divine laws are like that, they govern the movements of life on all levels.

"What is not imposed through force is durable; the aspiration of beings to rise is inevitable in the current configuration of the destiny of this world. Our way is ensuring its participation in a high level of critical results for the evolving humanity.

"May all our brothers and sisters work for the good!"
