Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, March 6, 2014 – 10:00 a.m.

All the best is being done to help our very dear and great son, Parthasarathi. His life is not easy; alas, we cannot spare him everything. The very dear and beautiful soul, Janaki, who was his mother on this Earth, is attentive to his life to an extent he cannot imagine. It is good to know one is loved in such a way, as it can help one endure this very painful aspect of an incarnation. The time of deliverance will place him among the Chosen, and he will be cherished as he rightly deserves.

Every day brings, for each person, a new colour to life; it is not always the one the heart yearns for, yet ultimately, what must be is realised. It is better to see only the positive and that which contributes to human evolution; this aspect builds the personality of the incarnate being, who is continually seeking experiences that will further his or her evolution here below. Following a spiritual way sets out a path, one by which all, sometimes unknowingly, aspire to nourish themselves and to discover the finer points that are so well hidden. Happy are those who advance towards knowledge – it is a resource, the importance of which no human being is truly aware. When an incarnation is concluded, each point is evaluated as good or bad; the assessment is made and constitutes the very essence of a unique resource for the continuation of the journey. Having a guide, a spiritual Master, allows one to save precious time. Do our faithful abhyasis truly realise it? We lead them to the best of themselves. Perfection is not easily achieved, but everything becomes possible, by divine grace, when the heart offers itself to it under the enlightened guidance of the incarnate Master. All of us here are working to this end, for the good of those who trust us; may they be blessed.

Babuji