Wednesday, March 26, 2003 - 10:00 AM

Man's vision of his existence in this world is not correct. He thinks in terms of eternity, when he is just passing by. Generally, he sets out more to accumulate tangible properties than to be concerned with his spiritual asset. As he gets wisdom with time, he realizes that there is a lot to do to fill in these kinds of gaps. When a soul wakes up, it searches for its way and ends up finding the Master who is intended for him.

"Our candidates went through that process; they searched, made experiments in other ways, and what they acquired enable them to appreciate the simplicity of our method. They must sense the call from inside for true reasons, and not for appearances satisfying their curiosity. Rituals, songs and all sorts of initiatives striking the imagination do not belong to our program.

"Our sincere abhyasis are satisfied with what we propose to them, a spiritual work suitable for their aspirations. It is accessible to all those who are ready. Fear brings man back to main things. This kind of madness, which is setting in on Earth, will do nothing but intensify and puzzle them.

"What will be their recourse when the values to which they were attached will no longer be current? Perhaps they will try to understand the true meaning of life and associate it with a nobler cause than the one they were giving credibility to?

"Your heart receives these messages, my child. They are given to you to help our brothers in due time, i.e., earlier than you think it. They will not remain forgotten and useless; they will become more important with time."

Babuji