My son is a great spirit, which he manifests in this current incarnation. These assets date back a long way. When he was by my side on this Earth, I had the opportunity to see how many of his qualities were operating, pleading in his favour in his current heavy load. It is necessary for him to be well armed, strong, to face all the situations. A spiritual Master, as opposed to what most of our brothers think, does not live in his own dreams, flying over the difficulties, without having to be directly involved. In practice, reality is very much different and we also like his special way of addressing problems and resolving them, as well as possible.

"He deserves respect and devotion from his close collaborators, and special devotion, related to his particular attribute as a high level spiritual Master. The personality of such a being is complex and must enable him to face the complicated life of this century (where our Mission is expanding over the whole world), which generates many problems due to, inter alia, the diversity of languages and ways and customs. Our way will get through all obstacles; the material world will not manage to limit it, neither over time, nor over space, i.e., by the many borders delimiting territories. Spiritual life knows no boundary. It is gaining ground through the hearts where passports are not required. It will touch them more and more and will bring together many brothers who will find in it answers to their expectations, beyond any indoctrination.

"May peace, this peace of the soul, be established among men and to make them better; it is high time [for that]. May God make that happen."
