In these 'confidences,' we will be able to express ourselves more freely, in a more concise way, and we will not have to pay attention to the reactions of one another. The circle becomes a triangle, and so we wish it to be. We know that Christianity is a sensitive issue, particularly in Europe, still fed with its taboos which are such that guilt still reigns forcefully, creating deep troubles. A true spiritual approach is beyond this way of functioning. In our way, it is about cleaning, liberating and acting in such a way that your hearts open up to the beneficial rays of love.

"We ask you to act in the right direction for your own evolution and for the good of beings that you rub shoulders with. We are not there to judge, to either absolve or to make guilty. We are not a religion, and we really hope to never become one. That is why we fear for the future.

"Humans like to innovate. Drifts would be ominous for the simplicity of our system. May you all be vigilant on this point."
